

Did you know The Lasers Fall Showcase is an Alliance Points event?

What is an Alliance Points Event?

Teams earn points at Alliance endorsed events. Events can be found on the Alliance Fastpitch website under each member league. These league events are designated as points for teams. Points are calculated using the ELO rating system. Learn more about the ELO Rating System HERE.

How Does My Team Earn Points?

The amount of points up for grabs is based on the win probability of the game. If you are expected to win (i.e. your team has a higher rating than your opponent) you will receive less points for a win. If you are expected to lose, but end up winning, you will receive more points for a win. Teams MUST score their games in AthletesGoLive (AGL) in order to receive points.

A few things to remember when scoring:

- Select the correct AGL Event ID from the drop-down menu when you schedule your games in AGL. AGL Event IDs can also be found HERE
- Select opponent's AGL ID. A master Alliance team list can also be found HERE.

Why Do Points Matter?

A team's overall Alliance Rating will determine league rank. Leagues will use the Alliance rating system to determine seedings at League Championships as well as placement in the event. The AFCS will determine seedings based on results of the league summer championship as well as Alliance ELO ratings.
